Domaine Désiré Petit

— Jura, France

As if Jura wasn't trendy enough, winemaker Damien's only gone and upped the ante by producing a no added sulphite Chardonnay.

Production

Made from a blend of three grape varieties (Ploussard, Chardonnay, Savagnin), the best bunches are dried for several months in the open air. Historically, the grapes were left to dry on a bed of straw, hence the wine's name. After pressing, the wine was aged in oak barrels for 3 years. Because of the drying process, the yields are a miniscule 17 litres of Straw Wine per 100kg of grapes.

Tasting note

Luminous and reflective, this amber-hued jewel is bursting with flavours of figs, apricots and currants.
