Alasia Gavi, Gavi DOCG 2024NEW

IAR90272024

Araldica Castelvero

— Piemonte, Italy

The Alasia name (and label design) is taken from the legend of the Medieval Princess Alasia who eloped with a young Saxon knight and hid out in the Monferrato region. The remains of the Ca' d'Alasia (where they allegedly lived) is situated near Castel Boglione. A modern elegant Gavi - textural, concentrated and food-friendly.

Production

The Cortese grapes are sourced from vineyards in the Gavi region, with limestone-clay soils. Grapes are hand harvested typically in the last week of September. The wine undergoes temperature-controlled fermentation in stainless steel.

Tasting note

Appealing aromas of citrus and white flower with a touch of white spice. The palate has orchard and stone fruit characters and a gently rounded, lightly nutty texture. Refreshing acidity balances underlying minerality.

Food Match

A good partner for summer salads, fish dishes and white meats.
