Cave de l'Ormarine Villemarin Rosé, IGP Côtes de Thau 2024

FOR0082024

Cave de L'Ormarine

— Languedoc, France

From the very south of France this lovely dry rosé is simpler but very much in the style of Provence.

Production

The terraced vineyards of the Cà´tes de Thau slope gently up from the western shores of the à‰tang de Thau (the seawater lagoon which is France's famous source of oysters and mussels) and comprise of limestone clay and red sandstone. Lying close to the sea tempers the severe heat of this part of southern France, allowing even ripening of Carignan Noir, Grenache and Syrah. Grapes are harvested at night, destemmed before gentle pressing and fermented at low temperatures to preserve the aromas.

Tasting note

Subtle, pretty red berry fruit on the nose with bright, ripe red fruits, a touch of rosehip and a slight salty tang.

Food Match

Match with fresh appetizers - olives, tapenade or roasted peppers - or grilled meat or fish and seafood especially oysters or mussels (as you'd find served in the cabins on the shores of the à‰tang de Thau).
