Pacific Sound Sauvignon Blanc, DO Aconcagua 2025

CGC0092025

Boutinot Chile

— Do Aconcagua, Chile

Pacific Sound represents the might of the ocean's influence over Chile's coastal vineyards of Leyda Valley where this wines hails from.

Production

The Sauvignon Blanc grapes are grown in three excellent sites across the Leyda and San Antonio D.O. The proximity of the vineyards to the Pacific Ocean (only 10km away) and its fresh coastal breezes ensures grapes ripen slowly. This allows the grapes to retain their natural citrus flavours and freshness but also to develop great aromatics. Sauvignon Blanc grapes in Leyda are some of the first to be harvested in Chile, and winemaking is simple to preserve this crunchy, bright fruit. Cool fermentation in stainless steel is followed by a couple of months on their fine lees which adds texture and depth. We bottle early to retain the primary characters, flavours and freshness of this enchanting fruit.

Tasting note

The wine is sourced from grapes shaped by the Pacific Ocean that grow in the Aconcagua region's coastal Leyda Valley. Grapes that achieve a pungency and aromatic profile the appeal to lovers of Sauvignon Blanc. Bright, aromatic and crisply textural.
