Tenute Pieralisi

— Marche, Italy

A complex and elegant style of Rosso Piceno - a Montepulciano-dominated wine sourced from the small, south facing Colle del Sole vineyard.

Production

The Montepulciano and Sangiovese vines are planted in the central part of the Colle del Sole hill, across 4 hectares. The Sangiovese grapes were harvested in mid-September, and Montepulciano around a month later. After a careful grape selection the must was fermented in stainless steel. Alcoholic fermentation took 26 days, with the first 20 on the skins. After malolactic fermentation the wine was aged in large oak barrels for around 12 months.

Tasting note

Aromas of blackberry and cranberry sit alongside an earthy, herbal character. The palate has layers of bramble fruit and plum, with a savoury undertone, velvety tannins and a lingering minerality on the finish.

Food Match

A good match for tomato-based dishes, such as a simple pasta al pomodoro.
