San Felice

— Toscana, Italy

Intriguing and classy Super Tuscan, smoky and black-fruited with great aromatic complexity. From the ancient Pugnitello variety, native to Tuscany, and rediscovered by San Felice - the first to recognise its potential and still regarded its foremost producer.

Production

Vermentino is a classic variety in the Maremma region, where it achieves perfect ripeness in the hill. Located on the Tuscan coast, the Mediterranean moderates the temperatures, particularly in autumn. Vermentino from the Perolla estate is blended with a little Sauvignon Blanc from San Felice's Camporosso vineyard. The wine is cool-fermented, and then matured sur lie for about 1 month.

Tasting note

A concentrated white with bright lemon and stone fruit characters, balanced by a touch of freshness from the Sauvignon Blanc. The palate has good weight and an almost creamy texture, with ripe apricot, lemon peel and tropical notes. This is balanced by crisp citrus acidity, lightly floral characters and a pleasing minerality.

Food Match

Ideal as an aperitif, but enjoy this very versatile wine with light starters, fish, veal or poultry.
