Production

This is a blend consisting of the most important white variety in the region - Encruzado - plus Malvasia Fina and Cerceal Branco. The Encruzado is cultivated at around 450-500 metres altitude in granite soils and gives structure, whilst the Malvasia adds an aromatic quality and Cerceal gives crisp acidity.The grapes are pressed and fermented at controlled temperatures in stainless steel and the wine spends 6 months in tank before bottling.

Tasting note

Fresh aromas of lemons and green apple with hints of wet stone. The palate has bright acidity, citrus characters alongside mineral and savoury a crisp finish.

Food Match

Enjoy with grilled fish dish dishes or salt cod croquettes
